the process

Each of our orders is tailor made for our customers, so unless you order something more than once, no two orders are the same.

Product development

LMA has extensive experience of all types of aerosol products and has an experienced technical department dedicated to developing new products and improving existing products.

There are an infinite number of options for your samples, including matching existing products to create a version for you, or simply improving a product which already exists.

Design and print

Our artwork and design capabilities mean that we are able to perfect container presentation in line with volume and colour requirements. We offer a complete range of print solutions including pre-printed cans, 1 or 2 colour in-house screen printing, sleeves and digital and off-set labels.

We have the knowledge to advise on the best solutions for individual requirements and can tailor solutions that perfectly match your requirements.

Regulations

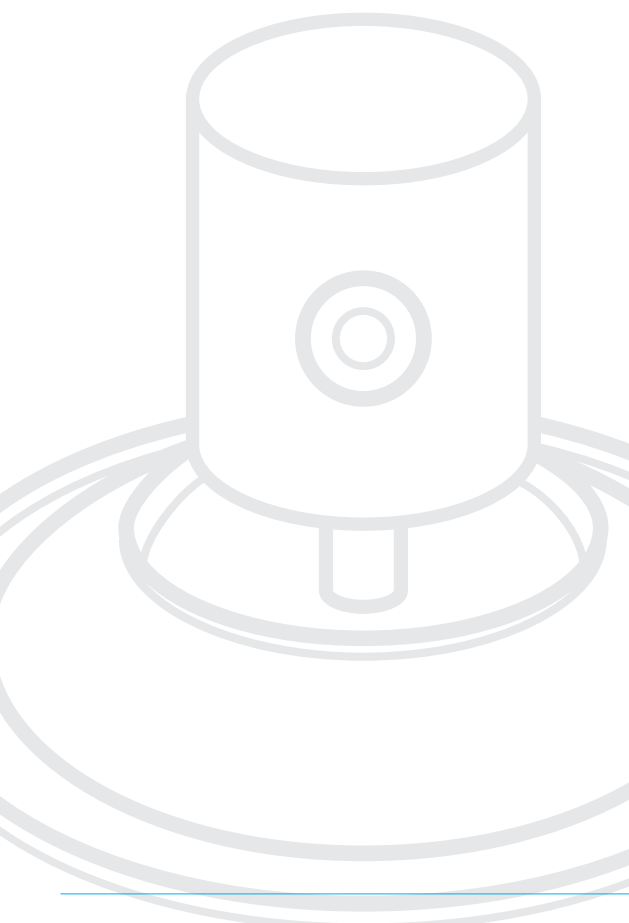

LMA services is fully committed to meeting regulatory requirements as and when they change. Additionally, we seek to work with the regulators to ensure that we are always prepared for regulatory changes and your products are always within the regulatory requirements.

Our Quality Management System is an integral part of being able to verify and validate the standards and compliance of all products and requires certification components and verification by inspection of suppliers' Quality Systems.

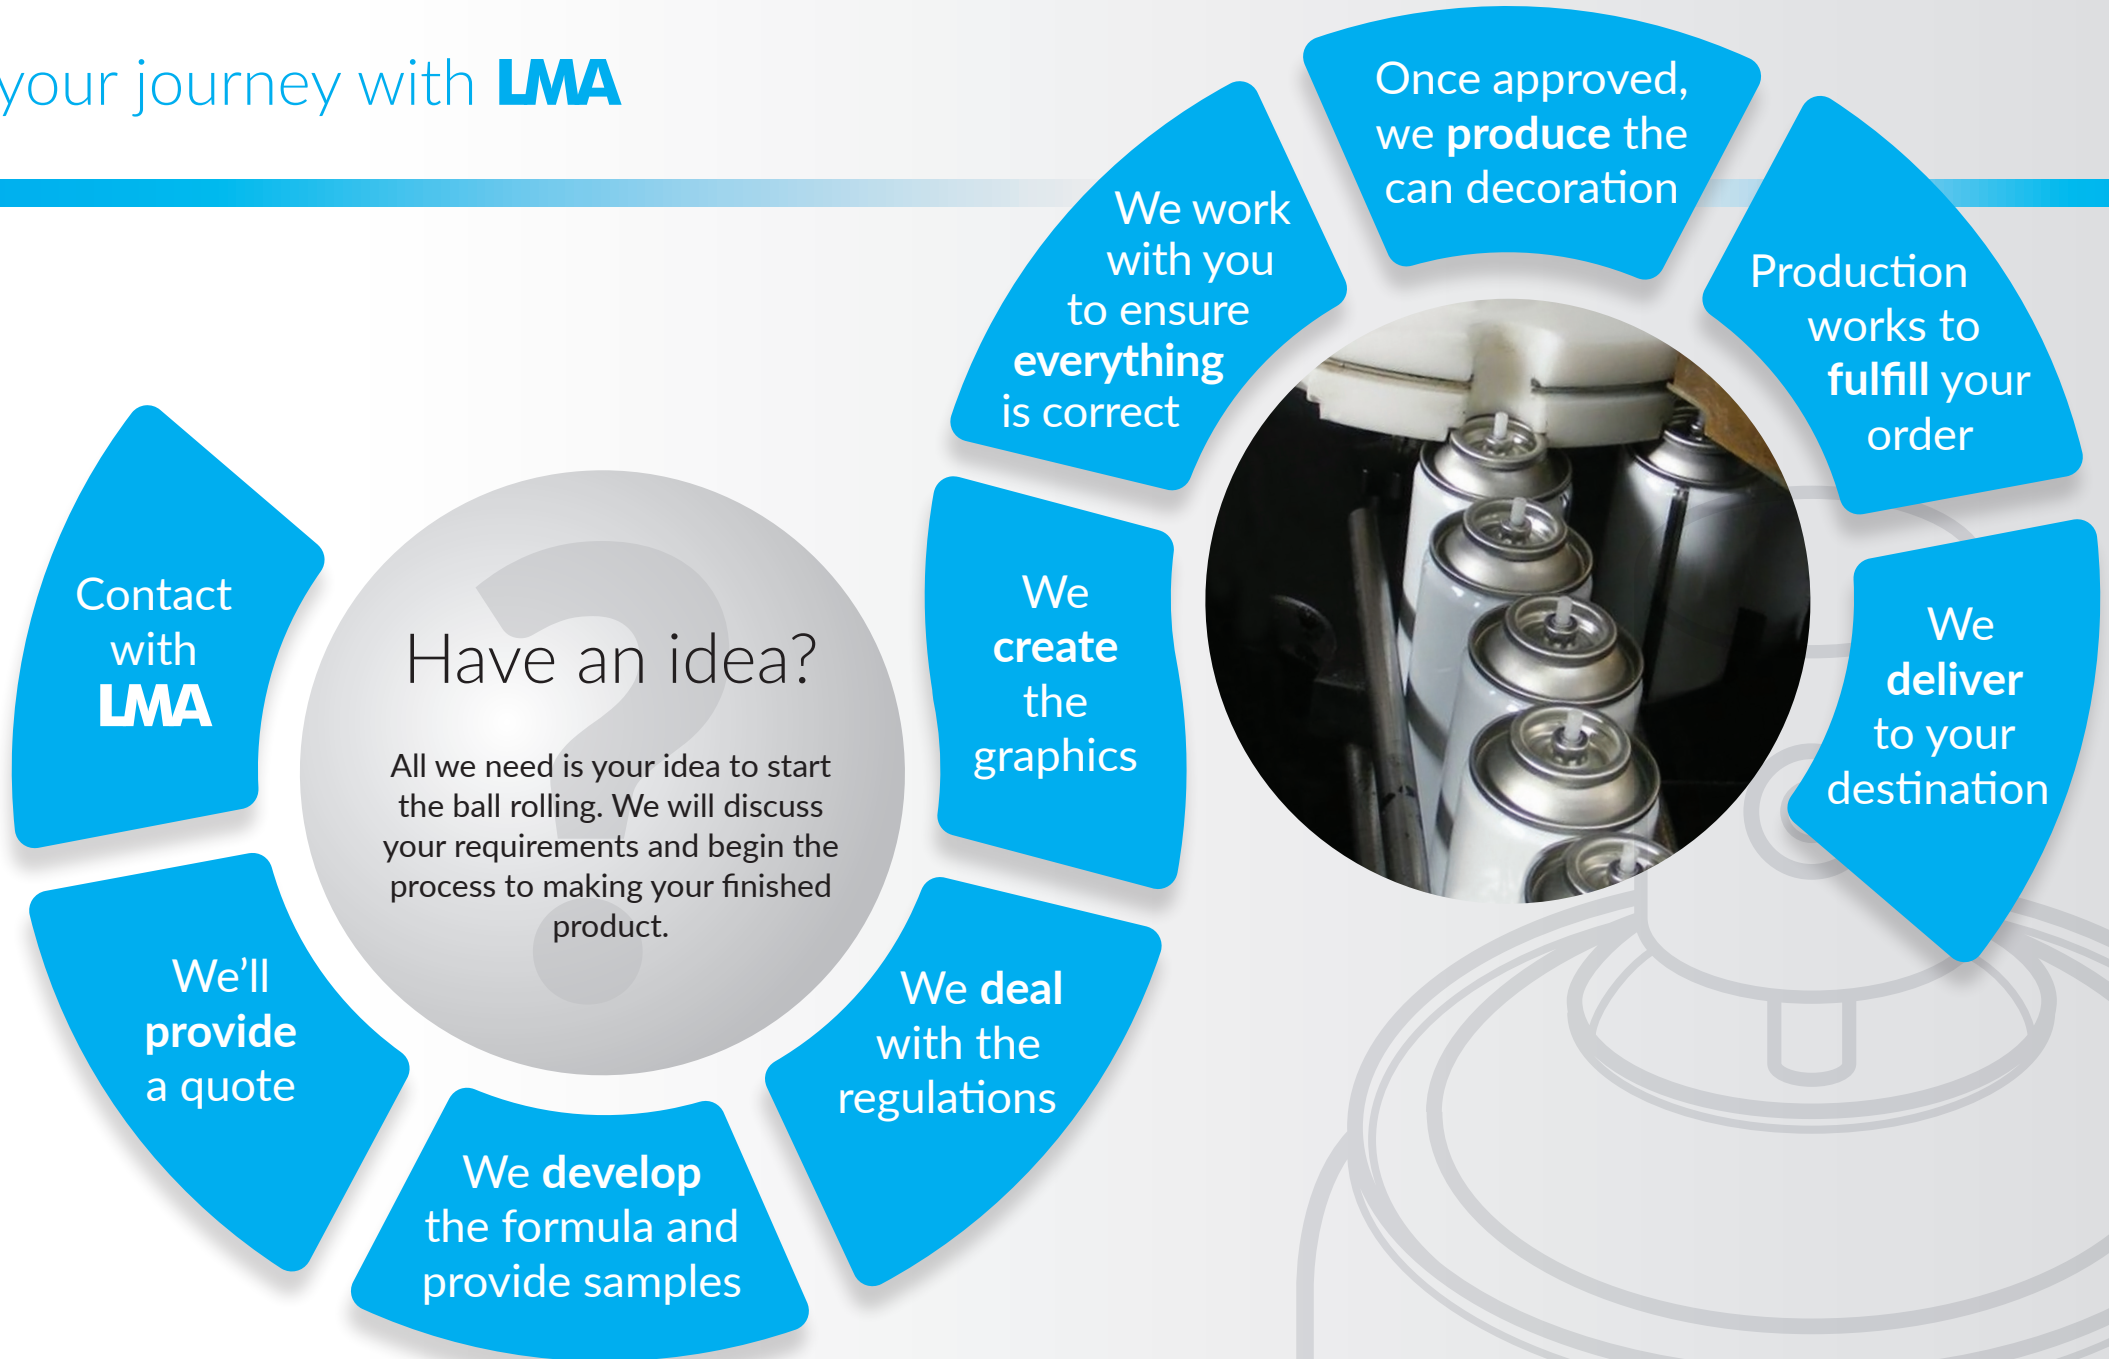

Production

We are constantly improving our production facilities and introducing new methods. As a result we are able to fill thousands of different aerosol products to thousands of different specifications. Currently we can fill aerosols from 100ml to 750ml, in a variety of dimensions, in both steel and aluminium cans, but we also have the ability to stock DS Containers. We store a whole host of valves and valve systems, including male and female valves, 360 degree valves, high output and inverted valves.

If you don't have a branded product which you would like manufacturing then LMA has its own brands which we would be more than happy to supply you with.
